Southern Nevada Jewish Community Digital Heritage Project

BOARD OF ADVOCATES

Charge: The Board of Advocates is comprised of prominent leaders in the Southern Nevada Jewish Community who provide significant assistance for the project in the form of public advocacy or financial support. In press and publications, the UNLV Libraries will mention the names of Board of Advocates as major supporters in order to generate greater interest.

Activities: Contributions from Advocates may vary. The Advocates will not meet as a group. Advocates will be encouraged to sit for an oral history interview and to suggest names of individuals who should be contacted for oral histories. Advocates will also be encouraged to provide feedback on the direction and implementation of the project. Advocates may be contacted by the Libraries or the media to provide public comment on the value of the project. Advocates will be invited to attend promotional events.

Benefits: Advocates’ interviews will be made available online. Advocates will be publicly recognized and thanked for their support. Advocates will have a voice in shaping the project. Advocates will be invited to all events associated with the project.

Composition: Shelley Berkeley and Art Marshall serve as co-chairs. There will be at least 10 Advocates but no more than 25. Advocates will be invited and appointed by the Dean of the UNLV University Libraries. Advocates may nominate other members for the Dean’s consideration.
