Biographical Note

Steven Hart was born on April 7, 1946, and moved to Las Vegas, Nevada as a one-year-old with his parents, Nat and Sylvia Hart. After graduating from Las Vegas High School, Steven Hart went through an apprenticeship program to become a journeyman carpenter. He then enlisted in the United States Navy and joined its construction battalion during the Vietnam War.

Upon his return to Las Vegas, Steven followed in his father's footsteps working in the casino industry. His father Nat Hart was one of the city's original celebrity chefs, well-known for his restaurants at Caesars Palace and the Desert Inn, and for his popular gourmet cooking school. During his long career as a successful gaming executive, Steven worked at several properties, including the International Hotel as food and beverage controller, and Bill's Gamblin' Hall and Hotel as casino credit junket representative.

Scope and Contents

Papers are comprised of personal ephemera collected by Steven Hart from the 1950s to the 1980s. The materials focus on Hart's childhood and young adult life growing up in the Jewish community in Las Vegas, Nevada. In addition to materials focusing on Hart's life in Las Vegas, the materials document Hart's activities serving in the military during the Vietnam War. Also included are photos of Steven Hart's father, Nat Hart, a well known Las Vegas chef. The material provides insight into the Las Vegas Jewish community as well as Jewish activities among soldiers during the Vietnam War.
