Historical Note

North Las Vegas, Nevada began as 140 acres purchased by Thomas L. Williams in 1917. Williams split the land into seventy-nine lots and began selling them to people who wanted to enjoy a libertarian community. During the Great Depression, people who came to Southern Nevada looking for employment at the Hoover Dam, but were unsuccessful, squatted in Williams' lots. During World War II, defense spending again stimulated growth in Southern Nevada because of the various war industries that brought people to the area. The army gunnery school, now known as Nellis Air Force Base, brought people to the north side of the valley for work and military service. North Las Vegas was officially incorporated as a city in 1946.

Scope and Contents Note

The North Las Vegas Library Photograph Collection on North Las Vegas, Nevada (approximately 1905-1989) depicts life and growth in Southern Nevada. The collection documents the growth of North Las Vegas through images of freeway development, schools throughout the city, and public service buildings. The documentation of Nellis Air Force Base, its activities, personnel, and aircrafts from the 1960s through the 1970s are prominent in this collection. The items described include photographic prints and negatives; some of the prints have corresponding negatives which are not listed separately. Items listed are photographic prints unless otherwise specified. Images listed specifically as negatives exist only in that format.
